NOLAN BLAMES OPERATORS FOR COAL STRIKE

Probe Started of Steamer Accident

DECK COLLAPSED ON CABIN HARDING WAS TO HAVE OCCUPIED; BOY FATALY HURT

Captain Dameron Refuses To Comment On The Daugherty Report

SUPPORTS MAY HAVE BEEN TAMPERED WITH

Several City Officials Are Slightly Injured In The Collapse

(International News Service)
CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 28—Captain George W. Dameron, of the United States inspection service, began an investigation this morning of a report that the collapse of the third deck of the Island Queen, while the steamer was carrying 200 passengers to the grand centennial celebration at Point Pleasant yesterday, was due to the supports of the deck being tampered with and weakened by some unidentified person.

Captain Edward Patterson, steamer commander, said he believed the supports, which collapsed, had been made insecure by some persons who gained access to them within the last week.

The accident resulted in probably fatal injuries to Wilbur Morgan, member of the boys band, Manchester, Ohio, who was caught beneath the wreckage and slight injuries to about 44 city officials and selected guests.

The boy was reported dying at a local hospital this morning. The Island Queen was inspected and pronounced safe by Captain K. Peyton, of the United States inspection service, on April 12.

Captain Dameron refused to comment on the fact that at the eleventh hour plans had been changed so that President Harding, who was scheduled to make the trip to Point Pleasant aboard the Island Queen, went up the river on the Cayuga, a government boat.

The cabin, which had been reserved for the President on the Island Queen, was directly under the deck which collapsed. Captain Dameron said that he had formed no theory, but would make a thorough investigation of the affair.

According to reports, Attorney General Daugherty requested that a complete report be sent to him, but Captain Dameron refused to verify this report.

DELEGATES NAMED TO SHOALS MEETING

Ten delegates from Albany were named today by Mayor E. C. Payne to attend the national conference of the Southern Commercial Congress, to be held May 22 and 24 in Florence, when the Muscle Shoals question will be discussed and means sought to aid development of the project.

The basic object of the conference, says an official bulletin from Clarence J. Owens, director general, "is to decide upon a plan of action and aid in expediting legislation at this session of the congress of the United States. Local arrangements have been completed for all visitors and delegates to inspect all projects in the Muscle Shoals district."

Delegates named by Mayor Payne are: H. O. Cline, C. W. Matthews, John W. Knight, W. R. Shelton, W. A. Bibb, Carl D. Patterson, F. F. Tidwell, J. A. Dillehay, T. A. Bowles, H. B. Beard.

Jazz School Issue Plays Prominent Part In Wilkerson Divorce Case

Mrs. S.K. Wilkerson, Little Billy Wilkerson, Mrs. E.R. Carter

Insight into night life of one of Chicago's jazz schools was given at Memphis, Tenn., when Henry Lynn Wilkerson, millionaire druggist of that city, sued his wife, Mrs. Susie Kyle Wilkerson, for divorce. Ford Rodman Carter, former president of the Chicago Stock Exchange, was named in the suit by Wilkerson. Mrs. Carter declared she was fully aware of her husband's acquaintance with Mrs. Wilkerson and had unreserved confidence in him. Custody of five-year-old Billy Wilkerson was awarded to the father. Mrs. Wilkerson was allowed no alimony and no attorney's fees.

TALKS TO SCHOOL ON CHILDREN'S AID

Decatur public school was favored with a rare treat during chapel period Thursday. A very instructive and interesting talk by Miss Virginia Handell, of Birmingham, her subject being "The Work of the Children's Aid Society in Alabama." Miss Handell spoke of her experience abroad during the world war in connection with work of this nature but stated that she intended to continue her work in Alabama as there was too much work in Alabama to be done for her to go abroad again in the interest of such a cause. Even though she has been asked to accept such work again. Miss Handell is a young lady of charming personality and a cousin of W. W. Benson, superintendent of Decatur public schools.

Tax Adjusters Hold a Meeting

A meeting of the tax adjusters of North Alabama is being held today at the office of Adjuster Bailey at the court house. The meeting is called for the purpose of discussing ways and means; to consider helpful suggestions from those present; to take counsel together that the work in which they are engaged may be carried on in the best and most helpful manner, with justice to the state and taxpayers as well. There was a good attendance of members of this branch of the tax department of the several counties comprising the district mentioned, and a large part of the day was devoted to a counsel meeting.

AUTHOR OF FAMOUS 'SAPIRO PLAN' WILL SPEAK IN MORGAN EARLY NEXT MONTH

Texas Co-operative Farming Expert Will Deliver One Of Three Speeches

FINANCIAL ADVISER OF FARM BUREAU TALKS

Major Gearing, of the Salvation Army, Outlines Work of Organization

The east room of the Y. M. C. A. was the scene of the regular Thursday dinner of the Morgan Kiwanis club. Forty-three members were present and a number of invited guests. The principal addresses were made by Major Jesse Gearing, Special efforts secretary of the Dixie division of the Salvation Army and R. J. Morgan of Columbiana, Ala., farm bureau financial adviser. The biggest piece of news given the members present was the announcement of Mr. Morgan that Aaron Sapiro, author of the famous co-operative selling plan—the Sapiro plan—would make an address in the Twin Cities at the community building at 2 o'clock next Monday week. As explained by Mr. Morgan, the local community and the county of Morgan was to get one of the only three speeches Mr. Sapiro will make in Alabama.

In his formal statement to the club of his business in this section of the state, Mr. Morgan said that it was his duty to aid in a co-operative effort on the part of the business men, bankers and farmers in financing the business of establishing collective selling on the part of the cotton growers. He said that 3,000,000 bales of cotton were now under the selling contract of the farm bureau, 50,000 bales of this number being Alabama cotton. Mr. Morgan has put Columbiana, Ala., on the map as a bee-raising town, and the speaker himself has large quantities of the busy honey makers. He is possessed of at least 20,000,000 honey bees according to estimates.

Major Gearing Speaks

The address of Major Gearing had been arranged for, according to a letter received by President J. H. Calvin by H. D. Cullen, of Birmingham, who will be remembered here as an active Red Cross and Four Minute Man worker during the war. The speaker's address was based on 30 years service in the Salvation Army and was full of inspiration. A diagram was exhibited by Major Gearing showing the exact amount of community service the Salvation Army of the Twin Cities had accomplished in the last few years. It was announced by Mr. Bailey, publicity man for the Kiwanis club, that in all probability Dr. Henry M. Edmunds, of Birmingham, will address the Kiwanis club next week.

Said Mr. Bailey: "I do hope we will give Dr. Edmunds a large hearing. No doubt many of you have friends whom you would like to have hear the distinguished speaker. You can do this by paying the 75 cents charge per plate at the dinner and by notifying the secretary not later than Tuesday of next week." Captain Abbott, of the local Salvation Army was present last night and made a few remarks. An executive session was called by President Calvin at the conclusion of last night's meeting.

Morgan Man Gets Money for Canine

The federal government will be required to pay J. J. Harris, of Morgan county, $100 for the death of a dog, which was killed by a train on the Southern railway while the railroads were in the hands of the government. Harris sued the Southern and the director general of railroads, but the supreme court held that the Southern could not be held accountable for the acts of agents of the government during the war, rendered a decision absolving the railroad of blame and affirming the judgment against the government's director general.

School Burned, Students Flee

(International News Service)
NEW ORLEANS, April 28—Fire, due to defective wiring, which destroyed the dormitory and the auto school building of the Loyola University this morning, did damage estimated at $50,000, one-third of which is covered by insurance. The greater part of the loss was a finely equipped pharmacy laboratory, which, it is said, will be virtually impossible to replace. The students in the dormitory lost most of their clothing, many of them having to escape with what little clothing they could grab, going through windows.

Women of Baptist Church Have the Men of Church As Banquet Guests

The Central Baptist woman's banquet to the Convention Bible class of that church has not been surpassed by any other church event of its kind in recent times if ever in either of the Twin Cities. The crowd present was distinctly reminiscent of the Muscle Shoals exposition crowds that infested the game building—the Malone building—some few weeks ago. By actual count made by Messrs. Doss and Beauchamp and by Mrs. Graves Petty, the banquetters numbered 206, and added to this number were the following tastefully uniformed waiters: Misses Evelyn McMillan, Brownie Warden, Aileen Martin, Ruby Britnell, Daphne Nelson, Ethel Mae Hattchett, Louise Matthews, Mildred Wilder, Lizzie Symrel, Tommie Newton, Kaleen Day, Laura Martin, Mary Newton, and a number of others who failed to register, according to statement of Mrs. Graves Petty, who was chairman of the committee that gave the banquet. Covers were laid for many more guests, but owing to the rain in the early evening they did not put in an appearance.

Good Fellowship
Three things, surpassingly fine food, good fellowship and high class entertainment vied with each other for the mastery last night. The entertainment began when Mrs. S. B. Burr arose as the last of the ice cream disappeared, the duly chosen toastmaster over her earnest protest. But since as "must she must," Mrs. Burr enlivened things from the beginning until the ending. She made one of the distinct hits of a really witty evening by first of all introducing Dr. W. P. Wilks, the popular pastor of Central Baptist church, as "the husband of Mrs. Mamie Wilks." The second address was made by D. D. Gibson, superintendent of the Sunday school of the church, which, under his leadership, reached the highest attendance in the history of the church. Mr. Gibson spoke on "How the Adult Class Helps the Sunday School." He said the adult class furnished the funds of the school, stability and concluded by declaring that "as goes the adult class so goes the school." Preceding this address was a beautiful solo by Mrs. O. M. Roan. And the first serious address was made by Dr. Wilks on "Building a Wall." He said that the parents in the home should be a wall of righteousness about their children. With Mrs. D. D. Gibson as accompanist a duet was sung by Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Pickets, which effort was heartily cheered and greatly enjoyed.

Malone Enjoins Loyalty
Mrs. Burr introduced B. L. Malone in appreciative words and said but for "frequent trips out of town never missed Sunday school. I present to you Mr. B. L. Malone, of Albany—and Gadsden." Mr. Malone responded with quick courage to the effect that he knew of several that out of town trips would help. This speaker's subject was "The Adult Class and the Church."

"Entire surrender to the Savior of the world, and loyalty to pastor and church will make any adult class the main stay of any church," declared this speaker. The solo by Mrs. H. R. Summer came next, and the delighted crowd clapped their hands sore for more like it, until that highly talented singers repeated with a witty song about old and little owls.

Spight Earnest and Eloquent
W. R. Spight, the teacher of the Convention Bible class, that beat all the woman's organized classes at Central Baptist, and thereby forced the ladies to furnish the banquet of last night, spoke on "Our Text Book." In earnest, eloquent words Mr. Spight paid a sincere tribute to the worth of "the Book of Books." The high school quartette composed of Messrs. Ridge-way, Hatchett, Matthews and Odum, entertained next with Mrs. Chunn as accompanist.

Mrs. Graves Petty, president of the large woman's class, that with the other woman's class taught by J. W. Gibson, went down in defeat in the membership contest against the men, spoke attractively, but declared that she had been too busy making the banquet what it was, and said with a note of pathos in her voice: "I was too tired to prepare a regular speech."

Mrs. Petty recently attended the woman's adult class convention in Mobile and on her return greatly enthused her class, according to Mrs. Burr, who introduced her.

Incidentally Mrs. Petty said she knew more about cooking and securing chickens for banquets than any other subject just for the moment, so following her upon request Mrs. Summer sang and recited in a manner that "brought down the house," to use an old reportorial expression in negro dialect how "Decon Malone accused Pahson Wilks of chicken stealing."

The remainder of the program rendered was as follows:
"Keeping Young" by J. W. Gibson.
"Co-operation" by Mrs. Lula Dillehay, a teacher of one of the defeated woman's classes.
Solo by Mrs. Frank Cook, with Miss Burleson, accompanist.
"Building Up the Class" by J. P. Matlock.

Male quartette, Messrs. Wear, Pickets, DePoyster and Wear, with Mrs. D. D. Gibson accompanist.
"What Shall We Do Next?" by Claude McMillan, president of the Convention Bible class.
"Going Forward" by Prof. E. L. Hays.

Admittedly the funniest among all the funny things of the evening was John Matlock's admission of his early ignorance of such things as banquets. He said, amid roars of laughter, that once upon a time he was invited to "a six o'clock dinner" and that as dinner to him came at 12 noon, he decided there was a mistake as to the hour, and that he showed up at the place about 11:30 a. m.

Aluminum Sale Held Saturday

What it is declared will be one of the greatest aluminum sales ever held here will be staged by Sivley and Sandlin, well known hardware dealers, Saturday, April 29, beginning promptly at 9 o'clock. The story of remarkable prices was told in a full page advertisement in yesterday's Daily.

The aluminum sale is divided into three groups, with extra special prices on each. Some of the articles are priced as low as one cent. In addition, the firm will offer many other unusual bargains in the hardware line.

DECLARES TROUBLE DUE TO EFFORTS TO PREVENT A DROP IN PRICES OF COAL

Chairman of Labor Committee Takes Slap at Industry's Chiefs

3 NON-UNION MINERS SLAIN IN EXPLOSION

Outbreak of Violence Occurs At Mine In West

WASHINGTON, April 28—Upon the coal operators of the country rests the sole responsibility for the nearly month old nation-wide coal strike. It was charged today by Chairman Nolan, of the house labor committee, which is investigating the tie-up.

Nolan, indicating the operators, declared the strike is undoubtedly due to the united efforts to prevent a lowering of coal prices. He denied, however, that there was any evidence of any conspiracy among the operators to this end.

HOUSE DYNAMITED

APOLLO, Pa., April 28—Three non-union miners were killed, one seriously injured and two others slightly hurt when a bunk house near the Patterson mine of the Kiskin Valley Coal company at West Apollo was dynamited today. A bomb was hurled through the window of the bunk house, a small frame structure containing one room.

Seven men were sleeping in the room at the time.

PUBLIC UNAFFECTED

WASHINGTON, April 28—Government reports today disclosed that the coal strike, thus far, has not caused any slowing down of manufacturing industries. Reports to the commerce department, federal reserve board and other agencies, said that industries in factory cities still have large reserve stocks of coal.

Disturbed conditions surrounding mine labor and a pessimistic view of the future outlook in some of the manufacturing groups continues. Coal stocks, held for emergency use, probably will be exhausted in 50 to 60 days at such plants.

The reports, however, show that among the large users of bituminous coal, the belief prevails that early development will restore operation in the bituminous regions.

BARDEN BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, April 28—William J. Barden, army engineer, in charge of Muscle Shoals, Ala., today appeared before the house military affairs committee, which is considering possible disposition of the property, now government owned.

The committee met in executive session. It is understood Col. Barden furnished data on construction costs of the project and the estimated amount it will cost the government to complete construction.

Robt. L. Burkett Dies In Carthage

Robert L. Burkett, former Twin City resident, died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at his home in Carthage, Mo., after a long illness. The body will be brought here for interment, probably arriving here Saturday afternoon or night. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Henry A. Skeggs and of Mrs. Ellen Stone, of Birmingham. He is survived also by his wife, who is accompanying the body here.

Mr. Burkett is pleasantly remembered by a number of the older inhabitants to whom news of his death will come as a great shock.

FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.PUBLIC CLAIMS ARE PRESSING AS WELL AS THOSE OF PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.

Edward W. Bok, than whom there has seldom appeared a more successful journalist considering the time he spent in the profession, and the money he made out of it, has come into the line light after two years of "retirement". It will be recalled that Mr. Bok retired as editor and manager of the Ladies Home Journal two years ago on the ground that he had made all the money he needed, and because he thought he could find more interesting things to do than to run a paper.

He now comes out and advises that people must be careful in retiring from business lest they get worked to death in public service. Which is to say that the claims of the public are very large ones. Just at this time Mr. Bok is engaged in promoting the 150th anniversary of the declaration of American Independence, with a world-wide fair at Philadelphia where in 1776 the original declaration was made.

It was Mr. Bok who guaranteed a salary of $50,000 a year for five years to Herbert Hoover to manage the great sequi-centennial, and when Hoover refused the job, Bok offered it to some one else. Mr. Bok doubtless wished he had chosen some other public service than making a world's fair, but he deserves commendation for launching out as he did two years ago for citizenship work. His opinion that public work is harder service than in private business will be accepted at its face value by many who have made an earnest conscientious effort to serve the public. There are jobs without number awaiting trained people to do them, not found in any of the professions, trades or industries. Such work is generally spoken of as the service of "publicists" or community builders. Except in large centers, there are few if any who devote their whole time to distinctively public service, excepting of course those engaged in the ministry. It therefore becomes the duty of each citizen in whatever walk of life he finds himself in relation to making a livelihood, to enter the large field of community building or citizenship service, to as large an extent as possible. For one to see the many things that need to be done in a public way, it is only necessary to stop and consider what one would do if free from the cares of making both ends meet in a business way. The things that ought to be done and would be done, if we had the time to spare and the means, are legend. This is evidenced especially when we consider the many "kicks" the public makes for more and better service. Granting that many of the complaints made are unfounded, still it is true that there are very many public services that are neglected. But not always is this state of affairs due to lack of time, money or opportunity. Where there is a will there are means of accomplishment; and despite the handicaps all have in smaller centers like ours, if we would make larger and more concerted efforts, we could clear the docket, so to speak, of our public duties in a manner more pleasing to ourselves and more serviceable to the community at large.

DEMOCRACY AS RECOGNIZED BY WOMEN.

The current issue of a leading American magazine, the Literary Digest, printed the picture of a woman 82 years of age, who was keeping a plumbing shop in one of the larger cities, and who previously had had a remarkable business career. The old lady took a walk every morning and evening of a mile, that being the distance between her downtown plumbing shop and her home. But why should this excite interest, or be the cause of publicity in a democracy, in a republic in which we proudly and loudly proclaim "all men are born free and equal?"

If, however, this incident is so unusual as to demand magazine publicity, what must we say about new social conditions that have followed the world war in England? Forbes W. Fairbairn writes from London that titled ladies on Quality street are now business ladies of Bond street. The proudest names in Great Britain are found behind the counters of some of London's most exclusive shops and department stores. Never before has there been such a democratization of aristocracy and proud society dames who are now found selling everything from fake pearls to eggs. And in the majority of cases they are successful.

Mr. Fairbairn then tells us that Princess Troubetsky, formerly of the Czar's imperial court and a member of one of the proudest families in Russia, has just moved into a new studio because her business of painting hats and glassware has become so large that her former quarters proved woefully inadequate.

But even a more interesting social and democratic development following the World War is that of Lady Clomell, wife of the Earl of Clomell, whose family has held the title for more than 200 years, operates one of the most modern laundries in England, and we are told by Mr. Fairbairn that "she is on the job every hour of the day." And then she seems to have displayed most excellent business judgment, from an American viewpoint, she has imported much of her labor saving machinery from the United States, and has been enabled to show many of the best known firms in London and in England how to get and keep business. And what is another significant feature of this story, her laundry is located in Duke street, "one of the most exclusive residential streets in Mayfair."

From the same correspondent we learn that this radical departure in the social life of London is not confined to a few, but there seems to be a very general stampede in breaking into new fields that had been hitherto thought to belong exclusively to the proletariat—the common herd of man and womankind.

Lady Duff-Gordon, he says, creates gowns which are a fine art, that she started business in two small rooms in Berkeley Square, but her business increased rapidly and she now occupies one of the historic houses of London.

Lady Honeywood began with keeping one hotel, now she has acquired three others. Lady Susan Townley, sister of the Earl of Albemarle, runs a pig and chicken farm.

Lady Marjorie Dalrymple, a sister of the Earl of Stair, manages during the day her sunde workshops and her business has grown to such proportions she is looking for larger quarters.

An up-to-date garage is the property of Duchess Gabriel Borthwick, sister of the late Lord Borthwick.

Mrs. Bertram Romilly, daughter of Lady B. Hozier, is reputed one of the most fashionable milliners in London.

Lady Bingham and Lady Egerton are associated in the dressmaking business.—Montgomery Journal.

HAVE KEPT THE FAITH.

Memorial Day—the day of memories—kindles anew the fires upon the altars of patriotic devotion.

Let the hilltop and valley catch afresh the inspiration of the day. Send forth the message of the memorial hour, telling again to the world that the honor accorded our beloved heroes knows no diminution.

Standing again upon the threshold of another day of memories we turn back the pages of our memory book and see pictured there the silent black-robed group of women gathered at Columbus, Ga., on April 26, 1866, around the sacred resting place of our immortal dead.

As they heaped upon the new-made mounds the rarest blossoms of spring, they pledged themselves to "perpetuate as a religious custom to wreath annually the graves of our martyred dead."

Thus came into being our Memorial Day, born in the hearts of the womanhood of the south in commemoration of the valor of the knightliest and bravest race the world has known.

Through the intervening years of more than half a century they have kept the faith and our Memorial Day lit the torch that lighted the sacred custom over the nation.

Our women have counted it a privilege to pay homage in martial music and the tramp of marching hosts, and to tell again the message—not in bitterness, but bending in eternal reverence above the green mounds of our heroes—and to write yet higher upon the history of time the record of their glorious achievements.

Celebrating no victory in war, yet cherishing these shrines in our innermost hearts and the saintly knighthood and Christian chivalry that prompted the immortal Lee to issue orders in invading the enemy's territory, "Let no discourtesy be shown the women and children," we bowed to the arbitrament of the sword, but cherish in idolizing devotion the "story of the glory of the men who wore the gray." Let our prayer ever ascend, "Lord, God of Hosts, be with us yet. Lest we forget."—Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, in Tuscaloosa News.

With the proposed city schools for Albany-Decatur which will be built at an early date, and the increased number of new buildings over the county for school purposes, some of them nice brick structures, the county can be said to have begun a campaign of school building as well as road building. It has long been a favorite pair to link together, good roads—good schools. They have always gone hand in hand. Wherever there has been a campaign of road building, schools and churches followed in its wake.

Hartselle has a grammar school building which will take care of the primary grades for a time. The county high school there also will meet the demands in this line for some time to come, an addition added there in the fall of 1920 costing $25,000. There is some talk at Hartselle of building a school building on the west side of town, a duplicate of the grammar school on the east side. Falkville has had under consideration the erection of a splendid brick school building at that place for the past year, and it is quite possible that one will be erected there in the next year or two. With this increased building of schools at different points in the county, the idea can be well understood that those in authority have made the decision that the young of today shall not want for the proper equipment in which to train for the work of life.

The case of Mr. Ford and the government is very much like two fellows who have had a disagreement. The plans upon which friendship can again be established is stated; one of the belligerents acceding thereto. When this is done other concessions are asked to be made; this is accordingly done. Perhaps the other belligerent hoped it wouldn't be accepted, and the wish is father to the thought. So soon as Mr. Ford makes one change in the original offer, other concessions are asked for. Is it the plan of those at Washington to wear the patience of the Detroiters out by continued and new demands? Certainly he has done everything which one in his position can do except just making the proposition to those in charge and telling them to make the plans and he would accept them. Would he get the shoals then? It is quite probable that other concessions would be asked for, entirely foreign to the original proposition. The people at large are becoming tired; they want to see their property developed for the benefit of the great masses of the American people.

If the young could but see and understand that youth is the time to acquire useful knowledge; that the ideas and habits formed in youth will in all probability cling with them through the years, it would be much better with them, and more positiveness would be put into the work at hand.

M'DUFF WINS FIRST PRIZE AT SHOOT

The Twin City Gun club had the best shoot of the season yesterday. The club gave three prizes. McDuff winning first prize, breaking 48 out of 50. Wyker and Gibson tied for second prize, breaking 47 out of 50 each and in the shoot off Wyker beat Gibson by one target. Schnur, Almon and Tillery tied for third prize, Schnur winning the shoot off by one target (Almon did not shoot in the shoot off).

Stinson and Cartwright, just returning from the Clarksdale shoot and being up all night accounted for their low score yesterday, both bringing back some attractive prizes from the Clarksdale shoot.

Since there isn't any baseball here this season the gun club will be a feature in sport. A second trap will be installed this week to accommodate the big bunch of shooters.

Prizes will be announced later for next Thursday's shoot. The score:

SUNG HIS OWN COMPOSITIONS

Thomas Moore, Famous Irish Poet, Was Surely Exceptionally Endowed by Nature.

Thomas Moore, Ireland's favorite minstrel poet, was born in rooms over a Dublin corner grocery in 1779, and died a baronet, the "poet of all circles and the darling of his own," the idol of two continents, in 1852.

For the last thirty years of his life he lived in a cottage at Sloperston, near Devizes, Wiltshire, where he devoted himself to all manner of literary efforts. His works include not only delightful short poems of "The Last Rose of Summer" type, but also poems to form a quarto volume, such as "Lalla Rookh," for which Moore received 3,000 guineas ($15,000), and they include prose of all kinds, a series of humorous letters, biographies and even a "History of Ireland."

You can get them at Speake, Echols & Speake for $26.50.

Moore himself was a beautiful singer and rendered his own compositions often in public. It is related that after the death of his daughter he refused to sing publicly again. His daughter, the darling of his heart, was leaving over the balcony one night to throw a kiss to her father as he was going out to sleep, when she lost her balance, fell and was killed.

"The Last Rose of Summer" was one of Moore's most exquisite creations. It appears in a collection of "Irish Melodies," written for Power, a London music publisher, on a contract to supply a considerable number of songs for a volume entitled as above. The work was started in 1807 and was not completed till 1834. "The Last Rose of Summer," however, was among the early productions, and is therefore easily more than 100 years old.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are twin orphans, aged 17, and are considered quite beautiful by our friends. Our trouble is very poignant, and quite different from the letters of your other correspondents.

We are both in love with the same young man, and he in turn cannot decide which of us he loves the better, as we are very similar in appearance and personality.

We were very happy before this young man came into our village, but now it seems we cannot agree on anything.

Every time he takes the one out he takes the other also. We can never have him for ourselves. He does everything fairly, even the kissing end of it.

Please tell us who shall have him.

THE SIAMESE TWINS.

THE SIAMESE TWINS: You may be sure, my dears, that the young man is not in love with either of you girls if he pretends to love you both, and makes love to you both. The best thing for you to do is to consider him as a friend, and to forget about being in love with him.

It is very improper and unwise for you to allow any young man to whom you are not engaged to kiss you.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

WHY WOMEN GET DESPONDENT

Are not women naturally as light-hearted, brave and hopeful as men? Yes, certainly; but a woman's organism is essentially different from a man's—more delicate, more sensitive and more exacting. Women in delicate health are more dependent, more nervous, more irritable and more despondent. When a woman develops nervousness, sleeplessness, backaches, headaches, dragging-down pains and melancholia she should lose no time in giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial, as it will quickly dispel such troubles. This root and herb medicine contains no drugs and has been the standby of American womanhood for nearly 50 years.—Advertisement.

UNDERWENT OPERATION

James Hunter, who has charge of deliveries for his brother, H. L. Hunter, the dry cleaner, is in a hospital at Nashville, where he was taken for an operation, following an injury sustained in an accident while riding a bicycle. It is probable he will return next week, as he is reported to be getting along nicely.

CARD OF THANKS

I beg that you will permit me through your paper, to thank the many friends, white and colored, for the sympathy they expressed for me in the loss of my beloved wife, and the many floral offerings.

BENEFIT PARTY.

The benefit party given by the D. A. R. for the D. A. R. mountain school fund was quite a success at the Lyons hotel Thursday afternoon when about $75 was cleared.

The guests were received by Mrs. Brenta Pruett, Mrs. W. E. Crawford and several other members of the D. A. R. chapter, and ushered into the ballroom where about 28 tables were placed, and there Rook and Bridge was enjoyed throughout the afternoon. The hall was beautifully decorated with silver baskets filled with red and white roses by Mrs. H. B. Beard and Mrs. Louis A. Neill, the decorating committee.

The Bridge prizes were won by the following: Mrs. Frank P. Lide, Mrs. Mayes, Mrs. O. Kyle, Mrs. Martin Phelan and Miss Sabine Dupont. The Rook prizes were won by Mrs. J. H. McMath, Mrs. E. J. Polhill, Mrs. J. B. Bailey, Mrs. Hal Beard, Mrs. J. H. Donnell, Mrs. J. D. Wyker, Mrs. B. E. Pruett and Mrs. W. E. Crawford. The ballroom was donated by the Lyons hotel management and $5.00 was given toward the cause by the manager, Harvey Hughes. The chairs used for the occasion were donated by Frank Brown and Cliff Almon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Smith are expected to return from Cincinnati on Saturday, where they attended the funeral of the late W. P. Fogarty.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Randolph and James and Will Tomerlin and Will Kipper attended the funeral of Mrs. E. S. Kipper at Minor Hill, Tenn., yesterday.

PARTY FOR MISS SMITH.

Mrs. Fred Smith complimented her daughter, Kathryn, with a birthday party last night to celebrate her 14th anniversary. Punch was served in the reception hall by Miss Christine Worley and Miss Roberta Winton. Pink and white roses with ferns were the decorations in the suite of rooms used for entertaining.

Mrs. Smith was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. W. T. Seamons, and in serving by Misses Kathryn Smith, Louise Almon and Christine Worley. Later on in the evening ice cream and cake were enjoyed by the following guests, the rich being: Misses Louise Hodges, Roberta Winton, Louise Almon, Mary and Martha Royer, Mildred Bell, Peggy Davis, Delores Harbage, Anna Margaret Arnold, Maxie Speake, Dorothy Cook, Christine Worley, Ruth Jackson, Sarah Blackwell, Carolyn Worley and Katherine Smith; the boys were: James Edward Morrow, Jr., Edward Singleton, Marion Russell, Irby Holt, David Chum, James Mitchell, Howard Graham, Eugene Gray, Walker McAfee, Dick Wright, Dan Simrell, Ralph Johnson, George Hartung, William Lindsay, Leonard Moody, George Jackson, Jr., Emerson McCullough, Charles Tuck and O'Sheen Tipton.

Quite a large number of useful gifts were received by Miss Smith, attesting her popularity among her friends.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE ELECT.

Mrs. C. O. Foote and Mrs. VanArsdale were joint hostesses at a linen shower given to compliment Miss Kathryn O'Bryant, a bride-elect of May, at the home of Mrs. Foote, on Thursday afternoon. Cards were played at four tables during the afternoon and the prize for high score, on a cut, was awarded to Mrs. Dan McKenna, who in turn presented it to Miss O'Bryant. The second prize was won by Miss O'Bryant. On the cut for the consolation, Mrs. John Arantz was lucky and upon receiving a dainty memento of the afternoon also presented it to the honoree.

The house was prettily decorated with pink and white flowers, the same color scheme being carried out in the refreshments, which consisted of ice cream and cake. After the refreshments were served, little Billy Sur-

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Smart Spring Suit of Blue and Yellow Kasha Cloth.

It had been a long time since Judith Smith took me on a tour with her. Judith writes for a fashion paper, and I am always interested in going with her when she gets stories.

"I want to see some things of other designers," I said to her over the phone.

"You haven't been with me since I bought that chertise dress that has been such a joy," she answered. "When can you come again? You seem to bring me very good luck."

"I should like to come any time I may," I answered.

"Splendid! Get your wraps and I'll come by for you," she returned promptly. "I'm going to one of the exclusive shops to see some suits they've brought."

"I should like to see them," I answered. "They will probably be of kasha, and I think it's the most attractive material we've had in years."

"Yes, the house is making a specialty of kasha suits, and they are so lovely. The new colors are charming."

"We were soon seated in a gray and blue kasha waiting for the models to show us the things. The Frenchman who designed the things stood about telling Judith interesting points to include in her story."

"This is one of our smartest. It has just come from the 'workroom,' he said, as a lovely color blue and yellow creation came in sight."

"I've seen very little striped kasha, and it is most effective," said Judith, examining the soft fabric as the model posed before her.

"The skirt was blue striped in yellow, and the solid blue coat was trimmed in yellow striped banding."

"Aren't those straight side panels which loop under the hem effective in working out the color combination?" said Judith, as she made a hasty pencil sketch so as to catch the suit to mind when she wrote the description.

"Yes, they are," I conceded. "And, better still, they give the much-wanted slender line." I added with a knowing air that it was the best which gave in costume its perfect finish. I was studying it with an admiring glance.

"As varied-colored as the lights in a prism, isn't it?" observed Judith, as she noted the direction of my glance.

"How is it made?" I asked.

"Of wool cords which entirely cover the surface and end in this little tassel off the side," Judith answered.

"It is very effective," I remarked.

"Judith," said Judith, "A hat of this

Upon opening the gifts, the honoree was delightedly surprised with a large number of pretty handmade linen articles.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. O'Bryant announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kathryn, to Mr. Paul Franklin Rowden. The wedding will be quietly solemnized at home on Wednesday, May 3, at noon.

The Silk Stocking club meeting to have been held on Saturday has been postponed.

Miss Dorothy Hatch, of Sheffield, will be the week-end guest of Mrs. W. E. Crawford.

Miss Willie Kent and Miss Mamie Sandusky are spending the week-end in Madison.

Helpful Rubber Bands.

Small elastic rubber bands like those used around rolls of paper in offices are more convenient for placing around rolls of papers or cloth left over from making a garment than using pins or strings for tying around them and presents a neater appearance in storing away. Catalogs, magazines, bunches of papers may be rolled with a rubber band and stored in smaller space.

Mixed Radiations.

The radiation of heat and light just above the earth's surface is a mixture of radiations from the sun, the sky and the earth itself. With an Arago actinometer of perfect calibration, J. Vallot, as reported to the French academy, has been able to estimate the relative proportions. In the clear atmosphere of Nice the earth appears to be the source of about 7 per cent of the total radiation; the sky, of about 25 per cent, and the remainder represents the portion coming directly from the sun.

WONDERS OF AMERICA

OUR GREATEST BALANCED DRAWBRIDGE

IN ONE way it is surprising and in another it isn't that in the most unexpected of places one often will find the greatest of its kind. To illustrate, across the Chicago river, which is not a nationally-known stream, at 16th street, Chicago, one is a bit astonished to find a single-lift, counterbalanced bridge that is one of the marvels of engineering and the longest and greatest structure of the kind in the world.

At this point an exceedingly heavy traffic interchange takes place between several large railroad systems and, at the same time, the traffic on this busy little river is such that the continuous flow of the rail traffic is frequently interrupted by the passing of ships.

This condition necessarily called for a structure which could be opened and closed in the minimum of time and was, at the same time, suitable to accommodate the traffic conditions.

The river is bridged by one enormous span, about 265 feet long, which, standing on end, is as high as a 22-story building and weighs approximately 3,500 tons. One end is stationary; the other is raised and lowered by electric power—only 12 minutes being required to open or close the span.

The bridge is single span, carries a double track, successfully meets the peculiar requirements imposed upon it and cost upward of $500,000.

Mystery of Horned Toads Explained

"How the horned toad ever happened to get this far away from its natural haunts is a mystery." NOT. The words enclosed in quotes is yesterday's record concerning a certain strange reptile, the capital "not" is what today brings forth. No man can tell in advance, the Good Book says, what a day may bring forth, but it is easy to tell what happened after the next day has come, especially when The Daily tells what it knows about say a horned toad, and the people of the Twin Cities read all about it. The particular people, who read yesterday's news story about the find of a Phrynosoma cornuta by the Albany clean up gang, and who are now prepared to tell about the mystery of yesterday, are William and Harvey Wilks, the little sons of Dr. W. P. Wilks, pastor of the Central Baptist church.

Speaking through their father, these boys say: "Our grandfather, Rev. W. D. Powell, brought us recently four horned toads from his farm in Oklahoma. One of them died and the other three strayed, one of them evidently down about the Masonic theatre." Dr. Wilks explained that his boys would take no steps at present to establish their ownership to the particular toad found by the clean up gang, and that they were delighted to have said toad on exhibition at the city hall, especially in view of the fact that they expect to visit their grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Powell, soon on the latter's farm in Oklahoma, where horned toads are common.

Another angle to the case developed later today when it became known that the toad found might have been one sent by Mrs. T. B. Hale to her husband while the former was in El Paso, Texas. Two toads were sent here last summer.

Mrs. Hale threw an interesting sidelight on the toads, rare here, but very common in some of the western states. In some sections, she said, the children hitch lines to the horns and drive them to toy wagons.

SCIENCE ROBS CALOMEL OF ITS NAUSEA AND DANGER

Sickening and Dangerous Qualities Removed—Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved—Calotabs the New Name.

What will human ingenuity do next? Smokeless powder, wireless telegraphy, horseless carriages, colorless iodine, tasteless quinine—now comes nauseous calomel. The new improvement called "Calotabs" is on sale at local drug stores and is the sensation of the drug trade.

For biliousness, constipation and indigestion Calotabs is a practically perfect remedy. One tablet at bedtime, with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no nausea, no griping. By morning your liver is thoroughly cleansed and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite. Eat what you please—no danger—go about your business.

Beware of imitations! Genuine Calotabs are sold only in "checker-board" (black and white) packages bearing the copyrighted trade mark Calotabs. The large, family size sells for 35 cents; vest pocket size 10 cents. All dealers are authorized to refund the price if you are not delighted with Calotabs. Advertisement.

TEMPERANCE DAY IN CITY'S SCHOOLS; SELLERS OF 'FAGS' TO MINORS RAPPED

Program Prepared By The W. C. T. U. Is Rendered In Local Schools

MRS. C. W. BLACK IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Deplores Alleged Sale of Cigarettes To Those Under Age

Temperance day was generally observed in the city schools yesterday following the requirements of the law. An outline program was sent out by Superintendent of Public Instruction John W. Abercrombie, with the following letter:

To Superintendents, Principals and Teachers:

Pursuant to the requirements of law, Friday, April 28, 1922, is hereby designated as Temperance Day for the public schools of Alabama. In the observance of the day it is suggested that teachers and pupils use the following program, which was prepared by the Alabama Christian Woman's Temperance Union.

John W. Abercrombie, State Superintendent of Education.

A program of unusual interest was rendered at the Albany high school, as gotten up by Miss Amelia Troy and other teachers. The principal address was made by Mrs. C. W. Black, president of the Twin Cities Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. Black spoke of the dangers of any kind of a handicap in life, and said that temperance of all kinds led to the same kind of disastrous results sooner or later. She referred to the long but finally victorious conflict waged to outlaw the whiskey traffic. The speaker dwelt at length on the destructive effects of the cigarette habit and showed what a handicap the several different poisons contained in them were sure to place upon the rising generation unless there was a halt called in some way.

The Story of Atalanta.

Mrs. Black told, in an attractive manner, the mythological story of Atalanta, the beautiful Grecian girl, whose hand was greatly sought after in marriage. Atalanta was the swiftest runner in the Kingdom, so to settle the question as to who her successful lover should be, she gave out the statement that whichever man outran her would receive her hand in marriage. None of the men cared to qualify as they knew there was no chance for them, except one man who had some speed but more brains. He went to the goddess Venus and secured three golden apples. With this fruit in his hands he went into the race with Atalanta. The beautiful woman moved ahead of the would-be husband, then he dropped one of the golden apples. Atalanta stooped to pick it up and the man passed toward victory; but Atalanta soon was leading again, then the second golden apple fell to the ground, when thrown forward. Atalanta stopped to secure it and the man ran ahead. As the race neared its end, with Atalanta again leading, for a third time the ambitious lover dropped a golden apple.

"I ought not to stop to pick it up," said the flying beauty; "I am apt to lose the race if I do, but I will risk it." She did so only to come up behind in the fatal race, and she had to keep her word and marry a man she knew little of. Mrs. Black said people who were ambitious for gain would stoop to sell minors cigarettes and cause them to lose in the race of life, but that the parents and those in charge of the children and young men should see to it that none should put "the poison of tobacco into their blood and thereby handicap them for life." Mrs. Black also told the story from Goldsmith's Vicar of Wakefield, of how Moses Primrose, the supposedly shrewd son of Rev. and Mrs. Primrose, sold the family pony at a good price, but foolishly spent the money for green glass goggles, instead of keeping it and buying a horse as the original plan was. It was shown that there was no harm in Moses' trade, but that there was a lot of harm in the cigarette trade.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Features Service, Inc.

The Warning Mother Graham Gave Madge.

I WAVED my hand gayly to Dicky as I drove away from the station, but there was no heart in the gesture or the smile that accompanied it. I drove home feeling that all the little imps of gloom resident in that end of Long Island had come to make their abode with me as well as some of their relatives from other points of the compass. For I could not keep from my eyes the vision of Edith Fairfax, returned from a long absence, rested, restored to the exquisite dainty prettiness which is hers, and which just escapes being absolute beauty. Beside the old appeal of friendly comradeship, which she always has for my husband, she would have the charm of comparative novelty to him, and I tortured myself with the idea of the joyous welcome which volatile, beauty-loving Dicky, slightly bored with domesticity, would give her.

Lillian's Suggestion.

So absorbed was I that I did not realize until a car had whirled past me going in the opposite direction, that the waving handkerchief in the hand of the woman beside the driver must have been a good-by signal from Katherine, and that under Dr. Pettit's escort, she was already on her way to the hospital to begin her delicate and important work of espionage over the man who had so persecuted and terrified Katie.

The little encounter was salutary for me. It jolted me out of the absurd jealousy which was obsessing me, and turned my thoughts to the terrific problem which Lillian was facing, especially to that particular fragment of the tangled skein, the threads to which lay in Katie's fingers. I wondered if there were not some way of getting around Katie's old-world fear of "the awful swear," which the man who had so strangely dominated her, had compelled her to take. I resolved to talk to my little maid concerning her oath as soon as I found an opportunity.

I made another resolution, also, as I found myself hearing the old farmhouse had bought. This was to put all sentimental worry concerning my husband out of my mind. He was not worrying about me—not perceptibly, anyway—I said to myself with a little feeling of pique which I tried conscientiously to smother, but which I think persisted in my subconsciousness long after I had banished it from my conscious thoughts, and I meant to take a leaf from his book.

Lillian met me at the door, her eyes worried, but cheerful, nevertheless. "Better go to your mother-in-law in the dining-room," she said. "She's on the rampage, and I don't know how long Katie is going to stand the strain without making a mistake."

I hurried to the dining-room to find Mother Graham extending a piece of bacon upon the end of a fork, and glaring from it to Katie condemningly.

"Katie's Out-of-Sorts."

"Do you call this bacon properly cooked?" she was demanding. "It's positively raw."

"I can't tell you that," returned Katie sullenly. "You say you no like it all crispy, like odes, and now ven I feel eet dees vay you no like eet."

"If you had any brains in that head of yours, you'd know that there's a medium between burned bacon and greasy raw stuff like this. Take it away, I don't want any of it—and see if you can make me a piece of decent toast."

My mother-in-law was seated so that she could not see the door in which I was standing. I looked anxiously at Katie's sullen face, for I knew upon what a hair-trigger her temper always was hung. But to my surprise she answered no impertinent word, but meekly picked up the offending plate of bacon and vanished with it into the kitchen. I advanced into the room to find my mother-in-law looking wonderingly at the kitchen door.

"Something's the matter with that girl," she said. "Usually she has a string of excuses as long as the moral law. I hope she isn't sickening for something. You don't suppose she brought back anything contagious from that hole she was in, do you?" She stared at me in sudden fright, evidently working her imagination up to all sorts of horrors.

"What nonsense, Mother!" I answered lightly, although at her words my apprehensive thoughts flew to Junior.

"Katie's simply out-of-sorts about Jim. But as I want to ask her about that man in the hospital, I'd like her to get calmed down a bit, so you won't mind if I make your toast and bring it in, will you?"

"I don't care if you do all her work," Mother Graham answered tartly, "but for your own sake I'd advise you not to spoil her again as you used to do."

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

A very important day is forecast from this day's astral operations. There is prospect of a sudden visitation which may involve a radical upheaval in affairs and a hurried change in the place of business as well as of residence. Whatever the occurrence, it may bring about and unforeseen. It may bring travel. While there may be many annoyances and perplexities, yet the general forecast is for success and financial returns. In domestic, social and affectional matters adverse conditions may hold sway.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to an interesting year with important changes, removal and travel, which may result successfully and with financial return despite, possibly, many annoyances. A child born on this day will be original in thought and action, but may be inclined to be careless and careless unless trained carefully in early life.

POSTAL FIXTURES HAVE ARRIVED AND OFFICE MOVES SOON

After some delay, the fixtures for the new postoffice of Albany have arrived and are being put into place today. The building, which has been in course of preparation for housing the office, has been completed, and with the installation of the fixtures which are modern in every respect, the citizens of this municipality will have one of the most convenient public offices of this character to be found. The fixtures are all new and made to order to meet the exact requirements at this place. There will be 350 key boxes, eliminating the necessity of turning special combinations in order to get to their mail.

Postmaster Huie, of the Albany office, announces that the Postmaster General has designated the week beginning May 1st, as postal improvement week. During this week all postmasters are expected to carry the message of effectiveness to the people of each locality. Acting on this authority and with the consent of the principals of the different schools of the city, including Austinville, a representative from the Albany office will visit the several schools, with the view of instructing the children at each place in a 20 minute talk about the working of a postoffice. The idea sought to be conveyed will be to acquaint them with the way of proper addressing of letters; how insufficient addresses are handled by the department; the registry feature; money order feature; in short, to acquaint them with the means and methods to make their mail service efficient at all times by the proper addressing of letters, legible writing and many other things along the line of efficient service.

The move to the new office will hardly be effected before next Tuesday or Wednesday, according to Postmaster Huie. Simultaneously with the move to the new location the ideas sought to be imparted by the campaign of postal improvement will be in full swing, and the officials hope to interest all the patrons of the office in a way to better insure efficiency by the art of co-operation.

Keep the Attic in Order.
Attics may be more easily cleaned and kept in order if the wall space is utilized in shelves or built-in closets. Hooks or nails may be placed at convenient heights and distances apart in which suitcases, baskets, bags, hats, clothing and small pieces of furniture are hung, designating certain sections of the wall for closets for winter clothing. Shelves, racks and even clothes lines may be placed on the walls for holding storage material.

WHY OUR CARS ARE GOOD

If we were indifferent about public opinion we might spend less time and money putting Used Cars in shape before offering them for sale. But we find that it helps our business as well as our conscience to be particular.

A few of this week's offerings.

What the USED CAR has done for motor transportation

With the development of the automotive industry and the perfection of the automobile, due to continued efforts of motor engineers to build machines which would and have revolutionized the motor problems of the world, the mind of the general public more and more has dreamed of the time when an automobile would be within the reach of EVERY MAN.

In the course of the past half dozen years the USED car has brought about a realization of that dream.

With the number of "traded in" cars growing larger and larger, the prices have dropped until now USED cars have reached a kind of low standard in price which makes it easy for the world and his wife to own an automobile.

Greater than the cheap price, however, is the absolute guarantee that we put on every USED car bought from us. We will sell you a USED car cheap, one we stake our reputation on for being just what we tell you it is, and we will take a fraction of the price as cash payment and the balance on easy terms.

If you live the week out without an automobile, certainly it is not our fault. We have done our very best to help you to own one.

SHE WALKED WITH A CANE

Just how a child comes by displacements of the spinal vertebrae is not hard to appreciate if you watch them at play. They get some hard falls and jolts, and unless the spine is given attention every now and then some chronic ailment is apt to develop. It was thus with Violet Watson. Something threw one of her vertebrae out of alignment and Rheumatism resulted. For years she walked with a cane.

Rheumatism is due to pinching of spinal nerves to the kidneys and liver. This results in sluggish activity of these two eliminating organs. As the waste poisons accumulate in the system the symptom develop that warrant the physician in calling it rheumatism. The Chiropractor brings the patient back to health by eliminating the cause—spinal nerve pressure—and when this pressure is gone, Nature gradually clears the system of waste poisons and the sufferer becomes well.

Rheumatism at 60

S. S. S. Thoroughly Rids the Body of Rheumatism Impurities.

Somewhere a mother is suffering tonight! The scourge of rheumatism has wrecked her body; limping and suffering, bent forward, she sees but the common ground, but her aged heart still belongs to the stars! Does anybody care? S. S. S. is one of the greatest blood-purifiers known, and it helps build more blood cells. Its medicinal ingredients are purely vegetable. It never disarranges the stomach. It is, in fact, a splendid tonic, a blood maker, a blood enricher. It banishes rheumatism from joints, muscles and the entire body. It builds firm flesh, tonight! Mother, you can not go out to get a bottle of S. S. S. yourself, surely somebody in your family will. Somebody get a bottle of S. S. S. now! Let somebody's mother begin to feel joyful again tonight! Maybe, maybe it's your mother! S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

He, glorious you will feel, mother, when your rheumatism is all gone. Let S. S. S. do it. It will build you up, too!

The infant of Mr. and Mrs. Moore was buried yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at city cemetery. The infant died yesterday morning at the residence of the parents on Fifth avenue South.

Odd Fellows Lodges Observe The Anniversary of the Order's Birth

With the fraternal spirit abounding; with buoyant spirit and cheerful face; with song and story; with a pride in their organization; with a zeal which has made the I. O. O. F. one of the strongest fraternal orders of the country, rounding out more than a century of helpful service, the membership of Albany and Fairview lodges, together with their families and friends, and visiting members from other places celebrated the 103rd anniversary of the order very fittingly Thursday evening at Odd Fellows hall on Second avenue.

Considerable disappointment was experienced when it became known that Grand Secretary H. C. Pollard, of Huntsville, was unavoidably absent. He was to be the principal speaker of the occasion. Rev. J. H. Hill was also scheduled to address the gathering, but was unexpectedly called to Nashville. These hindrances to the success of the meeting were quickly overcome by the same spirit which has kept the order growing for the last 100 years. At the last minute it was necessary to revise the program and list of speakers. Otto Moebes presided and wielded the gavel in a most acceptable manner. In opening the ceremonies of the evening he made a few preliminary remarks, expressing regret at the unavoidable absence of the Grand Lodge official, but stated that there were those present who would address the gathering and bring a message of 25 years experience as a member of the order. The lodge quartette rendered some special songs which were well received.

Mrs. Mai Robertson gave a reading which brought forth considerable applause.

H. C. McCord, a medal member, was then called for, he responding in a short talk in which he reviewed some of the early history of the order, tracing its growth down through the century, and dwelt at some length on the great accomplishments the order was responsible for at the present time.

Judge William E. Skeggs was next called for and responded in a most befitting way. He spoke of the pioneers of the order, those who blazed the way for the splendid civilization of the day, making it possible for the great order of today with all its helpful influences. Odd Fellows have something to be proud of, said the speaker, as old as the nation itself.

He spoke of the splendid achievements of the past, and made the assertion that the splendid foundation laid by these of the past, wrought with honest purposes, with the desire to construct something which would be helpful to those who were to follow on, would be safe and guarded by the splendid civilization of the present. John F. Lovin was next introduced, and made a happy little talk along the line of what an Odd Fellow really is.

Mayor E. C. Payne was called for, and responded in a short speech, dwelling principally on what the order was accomplishing for the orphans of deceased members. The Christian education afforded them; the helpful influences thrown about them. If the order had accomplished anything save these institutions, said the speaker, it would have made for itself a place in the minds and hearts of all those who love humanity. At this juncture the quartette rendered several selections, when it was announced that the things to be served were ready to be served, and all were requested to keep their seats. Waiters appeared presently bearing nicely arranged frozen dainties which were distributed among those present. Others followed with cakes and fruits. This ended a happy spent evening, in which good fellowship was abundant, and the desire to make all present have a good time and carry home with them pleasant memories. It was successful; and the management are due the thanks of all present in the manner in which provision was made for their entertainment.

Martial Swing of the Hymn. Many hymns in the song books of modern churches, including some of the most popular and inspiring, are of martial swing and tempo. "Onward Christian Soldiers" is the most popular of this class of religious songs. The Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould, English pastor, author and song writer, composed the words of "Onward, Christian Soldiers" in 1860. It was to be sung by children, and was written for a special occasion for which the pastor could think of no suitable marching song. He wrote it in one night.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES A Boy or a Girl?

Copyright, 1922, by Winifred Black. All Rights Reserved.

JULIAN HUXLEY says that it isn't going to be long before we're going to be able to choose whether to have a son or a daughter.

If that's true, I wonder just how many daughters there will be in the world.

I'll tell you—just about as many as there are fathers who can vote on the question.

No—not quite that. There are men who prefer sons to daughters—before they're born. It's the old-world idea of an heir and a successor in business, and there's something sweet and protective about it, too. A man likes to think that if he should die he would leave behind him a son, not only to perpetuate his name, but to protect his son's mother when he, himself, is gone.

That's all very well for the first year or so, but have you ever noticed that a man is particularly fond of his daughters when they get to be seven or eight years old? And when they're seventeen or eighteen—that's the time that Father wouldn't give one of his daughters for half a dozen sons.

Mother is just the other way around. She likes a son the best.

Oh, yes, Daughter's all right when she's little and pretty and yielding and can be dressed up and fussed over—all that. But when it comes to the teens—give Mother a son every day in the week. How she does love to call him rough and rude and how she glories in his roughness and rudeness even while she's scolding him about them. How proud she is of him—she can never get over the wonder of it—that tall, broad-shouldered, high-headed, opinionated, domineering man—her son, her little baby!

And Son is a good deal more apt to be devoted to Mother than Daughter.

Daughter and Dad—they're the pals—they are the ones with the secrets and the whisperings and the cajolements.

Doesn't It Depend—?

And, whisper, here's a strange thing—have you ever noticed it? I never yet saw a woman jealous of her husband's love for her daughter, but I have seen more than one man jealous of his wife's love for her son. I wonder why.

Winifred Black

The unselfish mother and the unselfish father—which will they wish for—a son or a daughter, not for their own pleasure and happiness, but for the pleasure and happiness of the child?

Which gets the most fun out of life—the man or the woman? He you know? Do? Oh, of course, it is always said that men have the best of everything—but do they always—really? Doesn't it depend entirely upon the individual?

I know scores of men who work hard and play hard and worry hard, too.

And their wives don't do a thing but play. There's no work for them to do and there's nothing for them to worry about.

Of course, we all know women who work and worry, too, but somehow, in the natural division of things, I don't believe the man has so very much the better of it. He has more pleasure, more interest in life, and he is less tied down as a rule—so people seem to think—to tedious detail.

But, somehow, I never could see much difference between the drudgery of housekeeping and the drudgery of shop-keeping or carpentering or shelling the horses or mending automobile tires or adding figures in a ledger all day long. The average man does his day's work because he needs the money, not because he has a thrilling time doing it.

Why shouldn't the average woman look at her day's work in the same rational, sensible, matter-of-fact way? If she did, I believe she'd get a lot more fun out of it.

There Are Still Twins

And then there is a lot of pleasure in home-making and home-keeping and a really natural woman really likes to be a woman—and wouldn't know what on earth to do with herself if she should suddenly have to turn into a man, with a man's work and a man's responsibilities and a man's somewhat dulled perceptions, to bear and make the best of.

Of course, no man in his senses would change places with a woman. But I don't believe that any sensible woman who is also a natural, well-balanced woman, ever really wants to change places with a man, either—when you come right down to it.

A boy or a girl—if I had my choice, I'd choose them both. There are still such things in existence as twins, aren't there?

Indiana Lady Had Something Like Indigestion Until She Took Black-Draught, Then Got All Right.

Seymour, Ind.—"Some time ago I had a sick spell, something like indigestion," writes Mrs. Clara Peacock, of Blairstown, Ind. "I would get very sick at the stomach, and spit or vomit, especially in the mornings."

"Then I began the use of Theodor's Black-Draught, after I had tried other medicines. The Black-Draught relieved me more than anything that I took, and I got all right."

"I haven't found anything better than Black-Draught when suffering from trouble caused by constipation. It is easy and sure. Can be taken in small doses or large as the case calls for."

"When you have sick stomach, indigestion, headache, constipation, or other disagreeable symptoms, take Black-Draught to help keep your system free from poison."

Theodor's Black-Draught is made from purely vegetable ingredients, acts in a gentle, natural way, and has no bad after-effects. It may be safely taken by young or old.

YOUR HEALTH

Why Cheerful Surroundings Help to Make Your Life Useful

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

DID you ever drive along a country road and come to a farm where there was a long row of beautiful maples or of stately elms?

I never see such a place without having a funny little feeling in my heart. To me the row of trees tells the story of a romance.

I can imagine a homesick bride living in that house. The young couple came from some distant place to make here a pioneer home. The husband said to his tearful wife:

"Don't cry, honey, let's make this the most beautiful spot in the world!"

So he went to the forest, selected the hardy young trees, and with her help transplanted them to bower the doorway and to make shade along the highway.

In the tangled branches of these trees innumerable generations of birds have made their nests, and perhaps the boys and girls of a score of grandchildren play in their charming shadows.

Had it not been for the physical effort, the mental stimulation and the contentment of soul resulting from the undertaking, that little bride of long ago might have sickened and died. Instead, she gained health and happiness.

We are dependent, amazingly dependent, on our immediate surroundings. Without books and pictures, a few pretty dishes and a handful of flowers or a growing plant, we would be living in gloom and misery. A few pretty things will transform the bareness and prison-like plainness of an abiding-place into the pleasing and cheery atmosphere of a real home.

No matter how poor you may be, you should surround yourself with these inexpensive but beautifying things which please the eye and cheer the soul.

Good health cannot be had if the soul is starved. You must feed your mind and nourish your spiritual being by reading, entertainment and good company.

We live in an age when the busiest person may be enlightened and entertained. This newspaper brings the world to your door every day. The theatre brings plays of human interest. The motion picture show reveals some great historical event. The news reel gives you intimate knowledge of the current events of the entire world. The city dwellers may see the green fields and whispering woods. The rural citizens may know the life and activities of the city.

Don't permit yourself to get bored.

Dr. Copeland

Answers to Health Questions

T. R. Q.—I am 18 years old, and am 5 feet tall and weigh 122 pounds. Do you think there is any chance of my growing taller?

A.—You may grow for several years yet. Join some athletic club or Y. M. C. A., and place yourself under the direction of a physical instructor, who will outline a course of exercises which may be beneficial to you.

M. E. K. Q.—Since last July I have been troubled with a pain in my left side. Also at times I have a pain in my right side, but it is not as severe as the pain in my left side. What would you advise me to do?

A.—This condition may be caused by indigestion, neuralgia or intestinal or kidney trouble. You should have a thorough examination, including a urinalysis and blood-count, in order to locate the cause of your trouble. After the cause has been located the proper treatment can be prescribed.

DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN

While the plan tentatively adopted for the payment of subscriptions made to the Greater Auburn campaign provide for the payment within a space of approximately two and one-half years, much latitude is to be allowed the donor in this matter. Some regular plan had to be devised and therefore the semi-annual payments within a space of slightly less than three years was adopted as the uniform plan.

However, it is declared that any person finding it impossible or inconvenient to make his payments in his way may suggest his own plan. It is declared that a large number of the younger alumni and many others have asked that they be allowed to make their payments in monthly or quarterly payments and in every case this has been allowed. In fact, the solicitors are told that where the donor does not desire to conform to the uniform plan, he may be allowed to pay as he sees fit.

Wives Placed in Pawn

A report received at The Pas, Manitoba, from the North states that an Eskimo trader en route to a trading post to sell his furs, disposed of four of his wives, each for a pound of tea and some tobacco. The purchasers are fellow-tribesmen returning from the Brochet post of the Hudson's Bay company, heavily laden with supplies. As it is the custom of the Eskimo, the original owner may redeem his wives upon payment of double the purchase price.

LOCAL GIRL PLAYS IN DIPLOMA RECITAL

On Monday evening, April 24th, at 8 o'clock in the Athens college auditorium, Ada Mildred Gane, director of conservatory, and Mary Margaret Chester, head of the expression department, presented in diploma recital, Miss Clio Lovin, pianist, and Miss Vera Holmes, reader.

The spacious auditorium was well filled with the many friends and relatives of these talented young women. The stage with its shaded lights and the many gift flowers made a setting both beautiful and artistic. Miss Lovin showed excellent technique throughout the difficult program. Her remarkable memory was the subject of much favorable comment. She brought fine musicianship to the Gavotte in B Minor by Bach-Saint Saens. Brilliance and vigor distinguished her rendition of the Allegro movement of Weber's Sonata. Her "Mammy" from Magnolia Suite was delivered with delicacy and charm. The program closed with the ever popular McDowell Polonaise which she gave with fine effect.

Miss Holmes gave the original arrangement of "Come Out of the Kitchen" by Miller. She demonstrated her power to awaken the thinking of her audience. Through a versatile mind and flexible voice she produced marked contrasts between different characters and situations. One of her greatest accomplishments is her ability to carry her hearers with her from one situation to another. She has a most charming personality that radiates throughout all her work.

Athens college conservatory is closing one of the most successful years in its history and the superior advantages being offered in the liberal arts by this institution is attracting increasing attention throughout the South. The program presented by the Misses Lovin and Holmes is in itself the highest evidence of the splendid work being done in this department.

Evolution Is Rapid These Days

THERE never has been a time when conditions changed so quickly—when life bettered itself so consistently—when the inventive mind turned so readily to new things that better fill old needs.

New conveniences and comforts are coming in all the time. And the conditions under which all things are made and sold are subject to frequent alteration.

The rapidity of modern commercial evolution vitally affects us all. And especially it affects the purchasing power of our money.

Whether you buy little or much, in order to buy intelligently, you must keep yourself informed. You must know not only the goods, the styles, the varieties and the price, but you must also know where the goods are to be had.

There is only one way in which you can keep your information up to the minute.

Read the advertisements in this newspaper.

Merchants and manufacturers are advertising in the newspaper for your benefit as well as their own. The advertisements are messages from the business world to you. They tell you what is new in markets and stores. They inform you of all that the world of invention and discovery is doing to make your work easier, your home life more pleasant, your clothing and food problems less difficult.

GENUINE SERVICE!

A McDougall Kitchen Cabinet will do for you just what other modern appliances—the typewriter, the telephone, the dictaphone—do for men in business. Specifically, it is a time and labor saver. Gives you the time to do the many things you have put off repeatedly. It is downright wasteful, you know, to spend two hours doing kitchen work that other women accomplish in an hour and a half, with the help of a McDougall. They have an extra hour or two every day for rest and pleasures.

There are few kitchens which a McDougall can not improve in methods of doing the work and in appearance, too. It is not a storage place for foods only but a central station from which all your kitchen work is managed.

The McDougall possesses every practical utility feature found on other cabinets, and the following exclusively patented McDougall features beside:

The Auto-Front—a sanitary wood curtain that drops at the touch of your finger.

Eight steel corner braces hold the cabinet firm and resist the strains of moving.

Shelves mortised into walls—not glued.

All joints tongued and grooved—not screwed into place.

LAWYER COULD NOT SEE IT

Legal Luminary Felt Himself Regretfully Compelled to Decline Offered Job of "Spallbinding."

"I want to take time by the forelock," he said as he entered a lawyer's office.

"Yes, sir! Yes, sir!" was the reply. "Always take time by the forelock and you won't get left. What if it, sir?"

"Well, we are to have an election this fall for city offices, and I want to know if I could engage you to make a speech for me the night before election."

"Are you going to be a candidate?" was asked.

"I am."

"But what about the speech?"

"Why, a fellow is going to run against me again who beat me by 300 votes last year. In fact, I only got two votes. I want you to come up and give me such a speech that I will beat him worse than he beat me. You will want to lay it right down to him. He killed a horse once, and stole a saw-mill, and has been married three times. If you will come up and present the case in a way to knock the fellow out, I will give you $5."

The lawyer respectfully declined to take the case, and somebody will get snowed under again. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

SOLONS PREPARE FOR SHOWDOWN ON MINE COSTS

WASHINGTON, April 28—Congress is preparing to take drastic measures to compel coal operators to lay open to public scrutiny every phase of their business, including trade secrets. This became definitely known today as the house labor committee, which for four weeks, has been investigating the present national coal strike, began its concluding work.

Hearings will be finished at once and the committee will begin immediately consideration of the Bland bill. This measure provides for creation of a federal coal investigation agency, vested with every conceivable power to enable it to get at the basic reasons for continued tie-ups of the country's coal mines, and recommend to congress a permanent remedy.

TROUT STREAMS OF CANADA ARE CALLING AMERICAN ANGLERS

FISHERMAN'S LOOK AT LAC NOMINGUE NEAR LABELLE, QUEBEC

A LITTLE BEAUTY FROM A LAURENTIAN MT. STREAM

The song of the reel will soon be sounding beside the trout streams. Ardent fishermen are overhauling their tackle boxes in anticipation of annual expeditions to favorite fishing waters. Each succeeding year sees greater numbers of American sportsmen heading for the w's and st. eams of Canada, for one who has discovered a likely stream in an out-of-the-way corner of Quebec or Ontario, tells his pal about it with the result that his pal accompanies him the next season. In addition to the great supply of game fish in Canadian waters, is the easy accessibility of many of these streams to the American border. A night's ride from New York, Boston, Pittsburgh and many other cities, lands one in Montreal or Toronto. Within two hours' travel from Montreal, the trout streams begin. One may drop off and whip the falls of the Riviere du Nord thru foams and dashes alongside the railway, or detrain at one of the many stations and hit the trail for the w. back from the line. Show the way on to Mount Laurier and of the branch, a whole wilderness of trout streams is his to fish and explore.

The maze of waterways in and about Nominque is dotted with fishing clubs, but the area is so vast that one is never bothered by neighboring fishermen.

North from Toronto is the celebrated French River district and a network of other streams and lakes, among which is Trout Lake rich in small mouth bass and large lake trout in their seasons. A fishermen's lodge here provides comfortable accommodations and good food, also boats and guides. This stretch of country east of Georgian Bay is a veritable fishermen's paradise which absorbs an army of sportsmen and their families every summer. Here, too, are to be found fishing clubs where the lone fisherman meets his fellows and swaps fishing stories over the evening camp fire.

PLANS PERFECTED FOR CAMPAIGN TO HELP KIDDIES AID

At a meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday afternoon, plans were perfected for the campaign to be put on for the Alabama Children's Aid Society in the Twin Cities.

It was decided that a committee of men and women should work jointly in raising the funds and the following committees were appointed:

Men's Committee

Chas. Rountree, Chairman; J. H. Calvin, S. M. Malone, T. G. Mundy, Judge L. P. Troup, Rev. J. D. Wallace, W. W. Kain, Clyde Hendrick.

Women's Committee

Mrs. E. C. Payne, chairman of Albany; Mrs. J. T. Jones, Chairman of Decatur; Mrs. J. D. Bush, Saturday Club; Mrs. L. P. Troup, Music Study Club; Mrs. F. F. Tidwell, Culture Club; Mrs. A. S. Blackwell, Bereau Club; Mrs. Hal Mullen, Cateco club; Mrs. J. D. Wyker, state director Children's Aid Society; Mrs. Louis Nell, States president Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miss Virginia Handy, extension secretary of the Alabama Children's Aid Society, outlined the work of the Society's telling of the thousands of dependent and neglected children in the state, that are being placed in splendid homes and spoke particularly of the thirty cases of children from Morgan county who have been cared for by the society. Some of these children here snatched from the jaws of immorality and put on the road to good citizenship by being placed either into homes for adoption, or in the excellent vocational school in Birmingham, others have been placed with their own relatives, where this was possible and, in every case real constructive work has been done for

How to Give a "Bridal-Slipper" Luncheon.

THIS function is for the bridesmaids and matrons or maids of honor, and is given by the prospective bride. As these women are usually the most intimate friends of the bride, they may get a treat at the wedding, and a look at the presents that have arrived. The bride, if she intends to go to the wedding, should in the note of invitation ask each friend to bring her favorite recipe, and she has a book especially desirable to have. If the bride happens to be going away to another city to live.

The bridegroom-to-be is supposed to furnish not only the bride's bouquet, but the flowers the bridesmaids carry as well, and this luncheon is an appropriate time to decide upon whether they shall consist of bouquets of flowers carried on the arm with ribbon ties, wreaths of spring flowers carried by ribbon, or of bridal slippers made of fine white flowers and leaves with satin ribbons on the toes. Bridal slippers are still favored by brides, though flat baskets carried by ribbon, does not seem to be so popular. The slippers are charming, and leave the hands free to remove the glove for the ring. It is customary for the bride to give her maids any little extra that their hosts may require, providing she is able to do so. If not, it is in much better taste to choose simpler gowns, something which they may wear afterward, so that their outfit will not be too great. The slippers, wedding often makes this impossible, as the gowns and hats are not to be made alike, which makes them marked when they next appear. Under these circumstances a modest wedding, where each maid has a gown of delicate color, is preferable, for the gowns may appear afterward with the addition of a sash or flowers and be quite individual. When all these points have been decided, and the bride's pretty things have been inspected, the party spend the rest of the afternoon helping address the wedding invitations, a task which is generally performed at the bride's home. Sometimes the ushers and groom drive in for tea and assist in the work. The luncheon is an early one to help with the good work.

The luncheon table should be set with white cloth and white china, and in the center a big white bride's slipper or a wreath of white flowers. The slipper should be placed on a small table, and the bride should be seated at the head of the table. The bride's slipper should be placed on a small table, and the bride should be seated at the head of the table. The bride's slipper should be placed on a small table, and the bride should be seated at the head of the table.
